Alison Sumiko Breen, M.D.

Philosophy of Care

Dr. Breen believes the best part of being a physician is building relationships with her patients. Every detail of a patient's care, whether it's preparing for a new baby, preparing for surgery, diagnosing a health issue, or routine well-woman care is important. Helping to bring new babies into the world and seeing a patient through surgery is an essential part of the career she loves and is committed to providing the very best care. She is pleased to work at UC Davis, where she attended medical school and residency training, working beside the doctors who inspired her to this career in the first place.
