You miss 100 percent of the shots you don’t take. —Hockey legend Wayne Gretzky

You are likely familiar with Wayne Gretzky, the hockey legend who was widely regarded as the greatest player of all time. Gretzky was known for his exceptional skills on the ice, but his philosophy extends beyond the sport. As quoted above, Gretzky’s famous saying, “You miss 100 percent of the shots you don’t take,” encapsulates the importance of taking risks and seizing opportunities. Whether you’re making career decisions, pursuing new hobbies, or trying out new experiences, this sentiment encourages you to step out of your comfort zone and embrace the possibility of success. It’s a reminder not to let fear or the fear of failure hold you back from achieving your goals. So, the next time you’re considering taking a risk, remember Gretzky’s words and take that shot — you might just score a goal!
