Applications Being Accepted for School at Work (SAW) Program Through May 24, 2013

As part of the UC Davis Health System's commitment to career development and succession planning, Training and Development is accepting nominations for the School at Work (SAW) Program. Now in its seventh year at UCDHS, this program was specifically developed for health-care facilities with a primary focus of providing entry-level employees opportunities for career advancement and continuing education while providing a pipeline to strengthen and expand entry into allied health and medical field professions.

Career employees selected for this year’s SAW program, will begin the program on July 3, 2013. Selected employees must commit to complete the entire six-month program, which is scheduled to end on January 24, 2014. Mandatory class sessions meet once per week for 2.5 hours, with an additional 2 hours per week of self-study outside of normal work hours. Mandatory classroom sessions will be held each Wednesday from 1:00 p.m. – 3:30 p.m. in Ticon III, Room 2400. Led by a facilitator, students will participate in discussions, interactive online exercises and computer based coursework.

School at Work (SAW) program topics include

- Workplace applications of reading, writing, grammar and math
- Healthcare and medical terminology
- Career development and mastering workplace competencies

Who Qualifies for the School at Work (SAW) Program?
