

Viyeka Sethi, M.D.

Clinical Interests	Dr.Sethi is currently pursuing clinical medicine with a special interest in bronchoscopy. She has also done some work in the field of neuroscience investigating delayed brain development related to abnormal circulation in infants with congenital heart disease.
Title	Assistant Clinical Professor
Department	Pediatrics
Division	Pediatric Critical Care
Center/Program Affiliation	UC Davis Children's Hospital
Languages	Hindi
Education	M.D., Louisiana State University School of Medicine, New Orleans, Louisiana, 2004 B.S., Loyola University, New Orleans, 2000
Residency	Louisiana State University, New Orleans, LA, 2004-2008
Fellowships	University of California, San Francisco Children's Hospital, San Francisco, CA, 2008
Board Certifications	American Academy of Pediatrics, 2009
Professional Memberships	American Academy of Pediatrics American Medical Association Society of Critical Care Medicine
Select Recent Publications	Sethi V. Critical Appraisal of: Willems A, Harrington K, Lacroix J, et al., Comparison of two red-cell transfusion strategies after pediatric cardiac surgery: a subgroup analysis. Crit Care Med 2010 38(2):649-56. V Sethi, S Tabbutt, A Dimitropoulos, K Harris, A Moosa, Andrew Campbell, Anthony Azakie, D Xu, K Poskitt, AJ Barkovich, SP Miller and PS McQuillen. Ascending aortic arch obstruction is associated with delayed microstructural brain development. PAS Abstract publication 1427.302 A Dimitropoulos, PS McQuillen, A Moosa, V Sethi, D Xu, V Chau, R Brant, A Azakie, A Campbell, AJ Barkovich, KJ Poskitt, SP Miller. Relationship of Brain Injury and Delayed Brain Development in Newborns with Congenital Heart Disease. PAS Abstract publication 1427.298

Viyeka Sethi, M.D.

© 2017 UC Regents