

Jennifer Draper, M.D.

Philosophy of Care

I became a doctor specializing in internal medicine because I enjoy helping people and managing a range of complex medical problems. I try to provide care in a compassionate way and treat my patients the way I would want my own family to be treated. As a primary care physician, I look forward to forming long term relationships with patients based on trust and mutual respect. I believe balance – of both body and mind – is essential to good health, as are healthful eating, stress reduction, and exercise.
