

Marlene von Friederichs-Fitzwater, M.P.H., Ph.D.

Clinical Interests	Behavioral change & cultural influences; reducing disparities in cancer prevention, control and treatment, community-based participatory research, cancer survivorship issues, HCV prevention among adolescents and young adults.
Title	Associate Adjunct Professor Behavioral/Health Disparities Scientist Director, Outreach Research and Education Program, Cancer Center
Specialty	Cancer , Hematology and Oncology, Internal Medicine, Rheumatology, Allergy and Clinical Immunology
Department	Internal Medicine
Division	Hematology and Oncology Rheumatology, Allergy and Clinical Immunology
Clinic	UC Davis Cancer Center
Education	Ph.D., University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah, 1987 M.P.H., Walden University, Minneapolis, Minnesota, 2008 M.A., University of Nebraska, Omaha, Nebraska, 1983 B.S., Westmister College, Salt Lake City, Utah, 1983
Professional Memberships	American Association of Public Health Association for the Behavioral Sciences and Medical Education Association for Women in Science Fellow American Academy on Physician and Patient Society for Public Health Education Society of Behavioral Medicine Society of Teachers for Family Medicine
Honors and Awards	21st Century Award for Achievement in Health Communication, The International Biographical Centre, Cambridge, England, 2003
Select Recent Publications	For a comprehensive list of Dr. von Friederichs-Fitzwater's publications, please click here (opens new window).

Marlene von Friederichs-Fitzwater, M.P.H., Ph.D.

© 2015 UC Regents