|-----------------------------------|--|
| Philosophy of Care         | Dr. Carson believes in complete, patient centered care for treatment and education of complex vascular disorders. Lifestyle modification and family teaching are an integral part of therapy goals.  |
| Clinical Interests         | Dr. Carson specializes in vascular and endovascular surgery, including treatment of carotid disease, complex aortic pathologies, and peripheral vascular disease. Dr. Carson also specializes in minimally invasive treatment of complex venous disorders. He has extensive training in angioplasty and stenting of mesenteric and peripheral vessels and endovascular treatment of complex aortic aneurysmal disease. Dr. Carson's research interests include; pathology of carotid artery disease, predictability of carotid plaque vulnerability based on current imaging modalities, and comparison of current therapy outcomes with various treatment techniques and modalities. Other interests include resident and medical student education and surgical skills training using simulation and models. |
