Interprofessional Program

Engaging undergraduate, graduate, or life-long learners in clinical quality improvement and safety efforts creates a pathway to a culture of quality at academic health centers. This symposium will highlight UC Davis Health System and schools of health initiatives and share national best practices. Keynote speakers include:

Brenda Zierler, PhD, RN, FAAN, Professor in Biobehavioral Nursing and Health Systems, School of Nursing, and Adjunct Professor, Department of Surgery, Vascular Division, School of Medicine, University of Washington. Dr. Zierler’s research explores the relationships between the delivery of health care and outcomes, at both the patient and system levels.

Heather M. Young, PhD, RN, FAAN, Associate Vice Chancellor for Nursing, UC Davis Health System, and Founding Dean, Betty Irene Moore School of Nursing. Dr. Young is a nationally recognized expert in gerontological nursing, rural health care, leadership and interprofessional education.
