Dear Colleagues,

Are you a mid-career faculty (MD, PhD, or MD/PhD) holding a medical school appointment at the associate professor level, have a leadership position within your discipline or department, and want to improve the knowledge and skills required to continue advancing to leadership roles in academic medicine?

If so, please consider applying to the AAMC Mid-Career Women Professional Development Seminar. The seminar will be held December 2-5, 2017 in Arizona and applications to AAMC will open in September. Additional information can be found at: https://www.aamc.org/members/leadership/catalog/323118/mid-careerwomenfacultyleadershipdevelopmentseminar.html

The Dean’s office has approved a process whereby WIMHS (the Women in Medicine and Health Sciences Program) will pre-review nominations, or self-nominations, and provide the Dean with recommendations for our school’s candidate(s). If you are interested in being considered to be our school’s nominee for this AAMC Seminar, please provide a letter of interest (1-2 page maximum) that addresses the following:

- The reasons you think you are a good fit for the AAMC Early Career Professional Development Program.
- Your career goals and leadership aspirations.
- An explanation for how the AAMC Program will help you achieve your goals and advance your career.

Please submit your letter of interest to WIMHS director, Dr. Amparo Villablanca, (avillablanca@ucdavis.edu) no later than Wednesday, September 6, 2017.

I hope you will consider this excellent leadership development opportunity! If selected by the AAMC to attend the seminar, the School will cover your travel and registration expenses.
